

Werewolves in my kitchen, zombies down the street.

Hi, my name is Sean. I am smart and serious. I achieved 7A's for my recent UPSR examination. I will not laugh when someone jokes with me. I have invented interesting things like a time machine. I have black hair and wear a pair of thick green spectacles.

“What's up, Sean?” said Pang Yi.

Pang Yi is a smart, happy and funny boy. He also obtained 7A's in his UPSR examination. He likes to play jokes on his friends. He has blue hair.

“Want to go for recess with me?” he asked.

“Sure,” I answered. Suddenly, I heard Dolly shouting at me.

“Sean!”

Dolly might be dumb but he is very talkative and active. He is also athletic and extremely talented in sports. He has brown hair and big round eyes.

“May I join you two?” asked Dolly.

“Of course, Dolly,” I replied.

After school, Pang Yi and Dolly ran home with me. “How much longer do we have to run?” Dolly asked.

“Be patient, it is just about another 15 more meters,” I told him.

After a while, we finally reached my house. We then rushed into my laboratory. Remember the time machine which I had invented? We were going into the time machine for an awesome adventure!

This time, we went to the ninth century.

“Uh, this place looks creepy!” Dolly exclaimed.

“Yeah, like the dead.” Pang Yi added.

After a while, we walked slowly into a small village. We saw a few old villagers outside their houses. One of the villagers warned us, “Beware of the Dark Forest. There lurks two scary kingdoms that want to rule us and they have teamed up to complete this quest.”

Another villager added, “These two kingdoms are called the ‘Werewolf Town’ and ‘The Underworld’. They have named their team – The League of Death. You can see both the towns near the black forest.”

They let us stay in an old chalet near the forest. In our chalet, there was a kitchen, bathroom and a bedroom. We all slept in the same room. It was midnight when I got up to get some milk because my tummy was growling noisily. Suddenly, I saw two scary werewolves in the kitchen. I took up my beam rifle which I had brought with me and shot the two werewolves dead.

Suddenly I heard the sound of noisy footsteps. Pang Yi and Dolly heard it too and woke up. We raced to the window to take a peek and we could see an enormous army of zombies heading down the street of ‘Werewolf Town’. Quickly, we buried the two dead werewolves in a pile of soil behind the chalet.

In the morning, we told the villagers what had happened. They were terrified by our news.

“I want to make an announcement,” I shouted. “I believe that the League of Death will attack us in three days. We must declare war. Who’s with me?”

All the villagers raised their hands in unison. Nobody objected.

Over the next few days, we made weapons such as beam rifles, laser swords, shields, smoke bombs and grenades. We also prepared catapults with fireballs as the ammunition. We made cannons too. Our preparations were finally done after a few hours of hard work. Dolly, Pang Yi and I had also setup some traps near the forest.

At night, I sneaked into the two scary worlds. “Wow, they are really mad. They had prepared axes, swords, armours but no shields at all,” I thought. I also saw a big hyena-like animal called Varkule. I quickly ran back and told the villagers that the League of Death was ready. This was going to be the most epic showdown ever.

The day had come. We wore armours and rode on horses while holding on tightly to our weapons. A few minutes later, I heard that my trap which I had left near the forest had killed something. The villagers later told me that it was a werewolf.

With a furious roar, the zombies, Varkules and werewolves had gathered in front of the forest.

“Ten thousand versus ten thousand ... fair enough,” said Pang Yi.

The zombies were riding on the Varkules. They were holding swords and wearing shining armours. Their eyeballs popped out filled with menace. Some were holding axes. The werewolves had dark brownish fur and their claws looked super sharp. As I turned towards the black forest, I caught sight of two gleaming eyes in the forest. I wondered what that was but my mind was filled with more important things at the moment ... the fight!

The war had begun. We kicked our horses' flanks and ran towards them. We crashed into them. We fought as many enemies as we could.

“Killed fifteen!” shouted Dolly.

“Killed twenty!” shouted Pang Yi breathlessly.

“Stop competing who killed more and focus on your fight!” I told them.

We were winning and so far, no one from our team had died. All the werewolves were dead.

Suddenly a zombie shouted, “Call King Tecton in. We need him to handle all these strong soldiers.” Immediately, a golden knight came out of the forest. The knight was holding two swords.

“Could this be a king or a general?” I wondered.

He killed all the zombies and sucked their power after the killing. His body doubled in size, tripled and then quadrupled. He grew rounder and broader and became five times the size of a man. It was indeed King Tecton!

The enormous creature had powerful front legs. It also had a thick leathery shell covered in sharp spikes. It looked sharp enough to gouge holes in a stone or metal. With a final metallic screech, it was ready to fight.

We threw our swords at the beast but it was useless. Nothing could pierce through that thick shell. The beast roared in anger, rolled up and began to rumble like a spike covered boulder, gathering speed, crunching through anything in its path with massive power.

It crunched a lot of villagers. I nearly forgot that we had smoke bombs, grenades, laser swords and beam rifles as our weapons.

“Let’s use our smoke bombs so that he can’t see us,” I suggested and threw the smoke bomb onto the floor. Tecton uncurled himself and started searching for us.

“Surprise, Tecton!” shouted Dolly, throwing the grenade at Tecton. Tecton got hit and fell onto the floor wailing.

“You better lose your spikes, Tecton!” shouted Pang Yi, using the laser sword and slashing every one of Tecton’s spikes. The knight beast screamed in pain.

“This is for everyone!” I shouted, using the beam rifle shooting at Tecton’s head. The head exploded into the sky. Bits and pieces of his head then landed onto the ground.

“Victory!” all the villagers shouted. All the monsters were dead.

We all celebrated by throwing a grand party. There were cakes, pies, fruits and lots of other types of food.

“This is life!” exclaimed Pang Yi happily.

“Luckily, time will stop in the future when we get into the time machine,” I said.

“Or else, we will not have this kind of party,” said Dolly.

It was going to be sunset soon and it was time for us to go home. “Next time, venture into other kingdoms as there are a lot more exciting places to explore,” said one of the villagers.

“Sure,” I replied.

We pressed the time button and we were home in no time. We all felt very tired but happy.

“I am looking forward to our next adventure,” I said to Pang Yi and Dolly who nodded enthusiastically back at me.

Written by Brian Ng Yong Jun